Effective Date: July 30, 2004, and applicable to taxable years of pass-through entities beginning on or after January 1, 2004.

Statutory Authority: R.I.G.L. 44-11-2.2

1. What form is a pass-through entity required to file under the new legislation?

For taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 2004, a pass-through entity is required to file Form RI 1096-PT, where it:

- Is required to file Federal Form 1065, U.S. Return of Partnership Income, Federal Form 1041, U.S. Income Tax Return for Estates and Trusts or Federal Form 1120S, U.S. Income Tax Return for an S Corporation; and

- Has any income, gain, loss, or deduction derived from or connected with sources within the State of Rhode Island.

Form RI 1096-PT is used by all pass-through entities described above to provide information and make pass-through withholding payments on behalf of those nonresident members.

2. When is Form RI 1096-PT due?

Form RI 1096-PT is due on or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the pass-through entity's taxable year (March 15 for a pass-through entity whose taxable year for federal income tax purposes is the calendar year). If the due date falls on a Saturday, Sunday or a legal holiday, then the due date is the next business day.

3. Under what circumstances is a pass-through entity required to make a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment?

A pass-through entity is required to make a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment on behalf of a member where:

- The member is a nonresident.
- The member's pro rata or distributive share of the pass-through entity's income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources is $1,000 or more.
- An election to be included on a composite return (Form RI-1040C, Rhode Island Composite Tax Return) has not been made by the member (see Question 13).

In accordance with the above criteria, a pass-through entity may be required to make Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments on behalf of all of its members, some of its members, or none of its members.

4. Under what circumstances is a pass-through entity not required to make a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment?

A pass-through entity is not required to make a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment on behalf of a nonresident member where:

- The member is a resident.
- The member's pro rata or distributive share of the pass-through entity's income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources is less than $1,000.
- An election to be included on a composite return (Form RI-1040C) has been made by the member (see Question 13).
- The entity is a publicly traded partnership as defined by I.R.C. §7704(b) that is treated as a partnership for the purposes of the Internal Revenue Code and that has agreed to file an annual information return reporting the name, address, taxpayer identification number and other information requested by the tax administrator of each unitholder with an income in the state in excess of $500.00.

5. If a pass-through entity makes a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment on behalf of a nonresident member, is the member required to file a Rhode Island income tax return?

Yes. The member is still required to file the appropriate Rhode Island Income Tax return (RI-1065 for partnerships and limited liability companies; RI-1041 for trusts; RI-1120 for S corporations and RI-1040 for individuals) even if a pass-through entity makes Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments on behalf of that member.

In filing the appropriate Rhode Island Income Tax return, the member will claim any pass-through withholding paid by the pass-through entity on the member's behalf.

6. How are Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments calculated?

The Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment for a member for whom a payment must be made is calculated by multiplying the member's distributive share of the member's separately and non-separately computed income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources by the highest marginal rate for individuals or 9% for corporations. The pass-through entity must calculate the Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment based only on the member's distributive share of income from that pass-through entity derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources. The pass-through entity may not take into account any losses that the member may realize from other sources or Rhode Island withholding taxes related to Rhode Island employment.

7. When is a pass-through entity required to make estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments for a member?

For tax years beginning after 1/1/04, estimated payments of Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax will be due as discussed in Question 8. A pass-through entity is required to make estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments for a member where:

- The pass-through entity is required to make a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment on behalf of the member (see Question 3); and
- The aggregate tax liability derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources from the pass-through entity is expected to be $250.00 or more for the taxable year.
- For a pass-through entity whose taxable year for federal tax purposes is other than a calendar year, estimated payments are required for the quarterly periods ending in 2005 and thereafter.

- The requirements for estimated payments shall be subject to the "safe harbor" provisions as discussed in Question 9.

In accordance with the above criteria, a pass-through entity may be required to make estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments on behalf of all of its members, some of its members, or none of its members.

For each installment, the pass-through entity must aggregate the estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments made on behalf of nonresident members and file one Form RI 1040PT-ES, Estimated Rhode Island Pass-through Withholding Tax Payment.

8. How are estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments calculated?

Estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments for a member for whom an estimated payment must be made are calculated as follows:

- On or before the fifteenth day of the fourth month of the pass-through entity's taxable year (April 15 for a calendar year pass-through entity), 25% of the Rhode Island income tax liability of the member must be paid;
- On or before the fifteenth day of the sixth month of the pass-through entity's taxable year (June 15 for a calendar year pass-through entity), a total of 50% of the Rhode Island income tax liability of the member must be paid;
- On or before the fifteenth day of the ninth month of the pass-through entity's taxable year (September 15 for a calendar year pass-through entity), a total of 75% of the Rhode Island income tax liability of the member must be paid;

- On or before the fifteenth day of the first month of the pass-through entity's next succeeding taxable year (January 15 for a calendar year pass-through entity), a total of 100% of the Rhode Island income tax liability of the member must be paid.

For a pass-through entity whose taxable year for federal income tax purposes is other than the calendar year, payment is required to be made on or before the fifteenth day of the third month of the pass-through entity's taxable year.

9. What are the "safe harbor" provisions for a pass-through entity making estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments?

Estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments for a member(s) for whom estimated withholding tax payments must be made (see Question 7) are to be made in accordance with R.I.G.L. 44-30-56. The required quarterly payments are to be made on Form RI 1096-PT ES in an amount equal to:

- 80% of the tax shown on the current year's Form RI 1096-PT; or
- 100% of the tax shown on the prior year's Form RI 1096-PT.

Each required installment is 25% of the required annual payment. If the member establishes that its income varies quarterly, then the income and the required quarterly payment may be annualized by using Form RI-2210.

If the required annual payment is not made for a member, interest at 1% (.01) per month or fraction of a month will be added to the tax due until the earlier of the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the pass-through entity's taxable year, or the date on which the payment is received, whichever is earlier. The Rhode Island Division of Taxation may collect the interest from either the pass-through entity or the member.

10. If a member previously made an estimated Rhode Island income tax payment for the 2004 taxable year, may the pass-through entity net that payment against an estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment required to be made on behalf of the member and pay only the difference to the Rhode Island Division of Taxation?

Yes. For the tax year 2004, the pass-through entity may take into account any estimated Rhode Island income tax payment for the 2004 taxable year by the member. In subsequent years, the pass-through entity may not take any estimated Rhode Island income tax payment made by the member into account.

11. Is a pass-through entity subject to interest and penalty for late payment and/or late filing of the Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment?

Yes. If a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment reported for a member on Form 1096-PT is not timely paid, interest will be assessed at 1% (.01) per month or fraction of a month until the tax is paid in full. In addition, a penalty will be assessed at ½% (.005) per month to a maximum of 25% on the unpaid tax until it is paid in full. If a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment is not timely filed, a late filing penalty will be assessed at 5% (.05) per month to a maximum of 25%.

The Rhode Island Division of Taxation may collect the interest and penalty from either the pass-through entity or the member.

12. How is a pass-through entity required to notify a member of the amount of Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments, including estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments, made on behalf of the member?

A pass-through entity will be required to furnish written information, on or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the pass-through entity's taxable year (March 15 for a calendar year pass-through entity), to each member for whom Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments, including estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments, were made by the pass-through entity during the taxable year.

13. Who may elect to be included in a Composite return?

A pass-through entity doing business in Rhode Island, or having income, gain, loss, or deduction derived from or connected with sources within Rhode Island, may file a composite return, Form RI-1040C, on behalf of its qualified electing nonresident members. All qualified electing nonresident members must have the same taxable year.

14. Who is a qualified electing nonresident member for purposes of filing Form RI-1040C?

A qualified electing nonresident member is one who meets all of the following conditions:

- The member was a nonresident individual for the entire taxable year;
- The member did not maintain a permanent place of abode in Rhode Island at any time during the taxable year;
- The member (or his or her spouse, if a joint federal income tax return is or will be filed) did not have any income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources other than from one or more pass-through entities;
- The member waives the right to claim any Rhode Island standard or itemized deductions and any Rhode Island personal exemption.
- The member has the same taxable year as the other qualified electing nonresident members; and

- The member elects to be included on Form RI-1040C, by completing and delivering to the pass-through entity Form RI 1040C-NE, Rhode Island Nonresident Income Tax Agreement/Election to be Included in a Composite Return, prior to the filing of Form RI-1040C by the pass-through entity.

The filing of a composite return will be considered as meeting the filing requirements otherwise separately imposed on each qualified electing nonresident member. Qualifying electing nonresident members who are included on Form(s) RI-1040C, are not required to file Form RI-1040NR. The Division of Taxation retains the right to require the filing of an individual Rhode Island income tax return by any of the members. A nonresident member may not revoke an election to be included in a composite return, or elect to be included in a composite return, after the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the entity's taxable year.

15. When is Form RI-1040C due?

Form RI-1040C is due on or before the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the taxable year of the qualified electing nonresident members (April 15 for calendar year taxpayers). If the due date falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the next business day is the due date.

16. Are estimated Rhode Island composite income tax payments required for members included on Form RI-1040C?

Yes. Estimated Rhode Island composite income tax payments are required for a member included on Form RI-1040C if the aggregate tax liability derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources from the pass-through entity is expected to be $250.00 or more for the taxable year. For each installment, the entity must aggregate the estimated Rhode Island composite income tax payments made on behalf of nonresident members and file one Form 1040-C ES, Estimated Composite Tax Payment.

17. Are there “safe-harbor” provisions for a pass-through entity making estimated payments for members included on Form RI-1040C?

Yes. The “safe-harbor” provisions are followed in the same manner as explained in Question 9.

18. Is a pass-through entity subject to interest and penalty for late payment and/or late filing of a Rhode Island Composite Return payment?

Yes. The interest and penalty charges are determined in the same manner as outlined in Question 11. However, the late filing penalty may be avoided if the pass-through entity:

- Files Form RI 1040C-EXT, Application for Extension of Time to File Rhode Island Pass-through Withholding Tax Return, on or before the original due date of the return;
- Pays at least 80% of the tax shown to be due on the return on or before the original due date; and
- Pays the balance due with the return on or before the extended due date.

19. How does the new legislation affect publicly traded partnerships?

A publicly traded partnership is required to report the name, address, social security number, or federal employer identification number to the Rhode Island Division of Taxation for each unitholder whose distributive share of partnership income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources exceeds $500.00.

20. How does the new legislation affect single member LLCs (SMLLCs)?

- SMLLC owned by a corporation.

An SMLLC that, for federal income tax purposes, is disregarded as an entity separate from the corporation, which is its owner, is treated as a C corporation for purposes of the new legislation. Therefore, if the SMLLC is a member of a partnership, the partnership is not required to make Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments for the SMLLC. Also, the SMLLC is not a pass-through entity, so it is not required to make Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments for its owner.

- SMLLC owned by an individual.

An SMLLC that, for federal income tax purposes, is disregarded as an entity separate from the individual who is its owner, is treated as an individual for purposes of the new legislation. Therefore, if the SMLLC is a member of a partnership, the partnership is required to make Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments for the SMLLC, if the criteria of Question 3 are met. Also, the SMLLC is not a pass-through entity, so it is not required to make Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments for its owner.

- SMLLC that elects to be taxed as a corporation.

An SMLLC that elects, for federal income tax purposes, to be taxed as a corporation, is treated as a C corporation for purposes of the new legislation. Therefore, if the SMLLC is a member of a partnership, the partnership is not required to make Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments for the SMLLC. Also, the SMLLC is not a pass-through entity, so it is not required to make Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments for its owner.

21. Does the new legislation require a pass-through entity (“upper-tier pass-through entity”) to make a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment on behalf of a member that is itself a pass-through entity (“lower-tier pass-through entity”)?

Yes. An upper-tier pass-through entity is required to make a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment on behalf of a lower-tier pass-through entity where the lower-tier pass-through entity's share of the upper-tier pass-through entity's income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources is $1,000.00 or more. The upper-tier pass-through entity is also required to make estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments on behalf of the lower-tier pass-through entity where the lower-tier pass-through entity's share of the upper-tier pass-through entity's tax liability would be expected to equal or exceed $250.00.

However, if both of the following conditions are met, an upper-tier pass-through entity is not required to make a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment on behalf of a member of a lower-tier pass-through entity:

- The lower-tier pass-through entity provides sufficient evidence to the upper-tier pass-through entity that the member of the lower-tier pass-through entity is a person for whom a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment is not otherwise required to be made (see Questions 3 and 4), for example, the member is a C corporation or a resident individual; and
- Information about the distributive share of the lower-tier pass-through entity owned by the member is provided to the upper-tier pass-through entity.

Example 1:

L, a pass-through entity, is a member of U, a pass-through entity. Therefore, L is a lower-tier pass-through entity and U is an upper-tier pass-through entity. L's distributive share of U's income derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources is $1,000.00 or more. Each member of L is a C corporation. L provides sufficient evidence of this to U. U is not required to make a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment on behalf of L.

Example 2:

The facts are the same as in Example 1 except for the following: L's distributive share of U's tax liability derived from or connected with Rhode Island sources is expected to equal or exceed $250.00, and the members of L are four individuals, each with a 25% distributive share of L's income. Three of the individuals (A, B, and C) are resident individuals, and one (D) is a nonresident individual. L provides sufficient evidence of this to U. U is not required to make a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment on behalf of L with respect to A, B, or C's distributive share of L's income. U is required to make a Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payment on behalf of L, but only with respect to D's distributive share of L's income. U is not required to make estimated Rhode Island pass-through withholding tax payments on behalf of L with respect to D's distributive share of L's tax liability unless it is expected to equal or exceed $1,000.00.

2004 INSTRUCTIONS FOR FORM RI 1096-PT

For more information on pass-through entity withholding or to obtain forms, refer to Rhode Island Division of Taxation's website : www.tax.ri.gov or call (401) 222-1111

GENERAL INFORMATION

Form RI 1096-PT is used to report the Rhode Island withholding of a pass-through entity with nonresident partners, members, beneficiaries and shareholders.

If the pass-through entity has no nonresident members, it is not required to file Form RI 1096-PT.

The pass-through entity is required to file Form RI 1096-PT showing the amount of Rhode Island withholding for all non-resident members for whom Rhode Island taxes were withheld. This does not include any nonresident members who have elected to file a composite return using Form RI 1040C-NE.

When filing Form RI 1096-PT, the pass-through entity must attach all corresponding Form RI 1099-PTs.

DUE DATE: A Sub S Corporation must file Form RI 1096-PT by March 15, 2005. LLCs, Partnerships and Trusts must file Form RI 1096-PT by April 15, 2005.

SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS

Please complete the top of the return by filling in the name, address, federal identification number and the total number of Form 1099-PTs that correspond to the RI 1096-PT. Also, please check off the entity type of the pass-through entity filing this Form RI 1096-PT and whether the pass-through entity has a calendar or fiscal year end. In addition, if the pass-through entity cannot distribute funds due to federal restrictions or if the nonresident members have less than $1,000.00 in Rhode Island source income, please check off the appropriate boxes.

If you cannot distribute funds due to federal restrictions, Form RI 1096-PT must be submitted by March 15, 2005 with a statement explaining what is prohibiting the distribution of the funds along with all of the corresponding RI 1099-PTs. The RI 1099-PTs must contain the required information.

If all the nonresident members of the pass-through entity have Rhode Island source income less than $1,000.00, Form RI 1096-PT must be filed as a zero return. All of the corresponding RI 1099-PTs should show the nonresident members' withholding as zero.

Form RI 1096-PT is not required to be filed if there are no nonresident members of the pass-through entity.

Line 1 – Using the appropriate column based on entity type, enter the amount of Rhode Island source income of all non-resident members who have not elected (using RI Form 1040C-NE) to be included in a composite filing, Form RI-1040C for this pass-through entity.

Line 2 – Rhode Island pass-through withholding rate. For C Corporations only, the rate is 9.0%. For Sub S Corporations, Partnerships and Trusts, the rate is 9.9%.

Line 3 – Multiply the Rhode Island source income of nonresidents (line 1) by the pass-through withholding rate (line 2) to calculate the pass-through withholding amount.

Line 4 – Total the pass-through withholding amounts from both columns.

Line 5 – Using the worksheet on the bottom of Form RI 1096-PT (lines 5a, 5b, 5c and 5d), total all payments made for Rhode Island nonresident real estate withholding, Rhode Island estimated payments made by the nonresident members for their Rhode Island Personal Income Tax returns, and any excess Rhode Island withholding tax paid by the entity for members.

Line 6 – Subtract line 5 from line 4 for the amount of Rhode Island withholding for nonresident members of the pass-through entity. This amount should equal the amounts in box 8 of all the corresponding RI 1099-PTs. Be sure to attach all of the corresponding RI 1099-PTs to this Form RI 1096-PT.

Line 7 – Do not use this line for tax year 2004.

Line 8 – Enter the amount of withholding that was withheld on behalf of the reporting entity itself by another pass-through entity. Enter the Federal Identification Number of the pass-through entity who withheld on your behalf. The reporting pass-through entity should have received a Form RI 1099-PT from the other pass-through entity. That Form RI 1099-PT must also be attached to Form RI 1096-PT.

Line 9 – Total payments. Add lines 7 and 8. (For tax year 2004, enter amount from line 8 only)

Line 10 – Balance Due. Subtract line 9 from line 6.

Sign and date the return. An officer representing the pass-through entity must sign and date the return. An unsigned return cannot be processed. Any paid preparer who prepares the return must also sign as "preparer." If you wish to allow the R.I. Division of Taxation to contact your paid preparer should questions arise regarding your return, please check the box above your preparer's name.

SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS

Please complete the top of the return by filling in the name, address and federal identification number.

SECTION A: COMPUTATION OF INCOME

Line 1 - Enter your total Federal Taxable Income from Federal Form 1120S, line 21; Federal Form 1065, line 22 or Federal Form 1041, line 22.

Line 2 - Modifications Increasing Federal Taxable Income

Line 2A - Enter any income from obligations of any state or its political subdivisions, other than Rhode Island.

Line 2B - Enter Bonus Depreciation and the increased Section 179 Depreciation that must be added back to Rhode Island income.

Due to the passage of a bill disallowing federal bonus depreciation for Rhode Island purposes, any bonus depreciation taken for federal purposes must be added back as a modification to income.

Due to the passage of a bill disallowing the increase in the section 179 depreciation under the Jobs and Growth Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2003, section 179 depreciation will remain limited to $25,000 for Rhode Island purposes. Therefore, any additional section 179 depreciation taken for federal purposes must be added back as a modification to income.

A separate schedule of depreciation must be kept for Rhode Island purposes. The gain or loss on the sale or other disposition of the asset is to be determined, for Rhode Island purposes, using the Rhode Island depreciation schedule.

For further information regarding bonus depreciation or section 179 depreciation refer to the General Instructions of Form RI-1040NR, Rhode Island Nonresident Income Tax return.

Line 4B - Enter Bonus Depreciation and Section 179 Depreciation that has not been taken for federal purposes because the depreciation was not taken originally.

Since a bill was passed disallowing federal bonus depreciation for Rhode Island purposes, in the first year any bonus depreciation taken for federal purposes should have been added back as a modification to income. Therefore, in subsequent years, if federal depreciation is less than what previously would have been allowed, the difference can be deducted as a modification to income.

Since a bill was passed disallowing the increase in the section 179 depreciation under the Jobs and Growth Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2003, section 179 depreciation will remain limited to $25,000 for Rhode Island purposes. Therefore, in the first year any additional section 179 depreciation taken for federal purposes should have been added back as a modification to income. Accordingly, in subsequent years, if federal depreciation is less than what previously would have been allowed, the difference can be deducted as a modification to income.

A separate schedule of depreciation must be kept for Rhode Island purposes. The gain or loss on the sale or other disposition of the asset is to be determined, for Rhode Island purposes, using the Rhode Island depreciation schedule.

This election may be made by any individual who is a nonresident:

NOTE: The filing of a composite return will be considered as meeting the filing requirements otherwise separately imposed on each qualified electing nonresident member resulting exclusively from this income. Qualifying electing nonresident members who are included on Form RI-1040C, are not required to file Form RI-1040NR. The Division of Taxation retains the right to require the filing of an individual Rhode Island income tax return by any of the members. However, a qualified electing nonresident member may not elect to be included in a composite return, after the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the entity's taxable year.

Terms Applicable to Partners of a Partnership, Shareholders of an S Corporation, Members of an LLC, and to Beneficiaries of Trusts or Estates:

For a Partnership, the nonresident partner's distributive share of partnership income derived from or connected with sources within Rhode Island.

For an S Corporation, each nonresident shareholder's pro rata share of income, gain, loss, and deduction derived from or connected with sources within Rhode Island.

For an LLC, each nonresident LLC member's distributive share of income, gain, loss, and deduction (net of modifications) derived from or connected with sources within Rhode Island.

For a Trust or an Estate, each nonresident beneficiary's share of trust or estate income, gain, loss, and deduction (net of modifications) derived from or connected with sources within Rhode Island.

When and Where to File: A qualified nonresident member electing to be included in a composite tax return must submit a completed Form RI 1040C-NE to the pass-through entity prior to the filing of Form RI-1040C by the pass-through entity. The due date for Form RI-1040C is the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the taxable year of the qualified electing nonresident members. The pass-through entity must keep Form RI 1040C-NE in its permanent records and make them available to the Division of Taxation upon request. Form RI 1040C-NE filed beginning on or after the first day of the taxable year, will be effective for that taxable year and for all following taxable years, unless the qualified electing nonresident partner revokes the agreement by providing written notice of the revocation to the pass-through entity. Any revocation shall be effective the taxable year after the date written notification is provided to the pass-through entity. The pass-through entity must keep and maintain such written notices in its permanent records, and make them available to the Division of Taxation upon request.
